Welcome note

“ Welcome to the Inaugural CUHK Research Summit!

The C-Centre (the Centre for Chinese Media and Comparative Communication Research) at the School of Journalism and Communication, the Chinese University of Hong Kong, welcomes you to the Inaugural CUHK Research Summit: Digital Methods and Social Development.

This week-long event during 21-27 August 2016 emerges from two observations. First, despite the rapid growth of digital applications in data mining, social media analysis, data visualization, and related research device in recent years, these latest methodological instruments often serve resource-rich organizations exclusively. Second, the materials being analyzed, especially those that are natively digital, seldom transcend the boundaries of European languages and western societies. We therefore decide to organize our Sunday Summit on August 21 and the Summer School from August 22-27 with explicit goals to direct research resources to the less resourceful and to non-European settings, starting from concrete problems we face in Hong Kong and in Greater China.

Building on the 10-year legacy of the Digital Methods Summer School at the University of Amsterdam (digitalmethods.net), we have successfully selected 23 participants from a large pool of applicants, who come from very diverse disciplinary, cultural, methodological backgrounds. You will conduct groupwork on four topics: the Des Voeux Road Central Initiative by Hong Kong Clean Air Network, the Disney campaign by Students and Scholars Against Corporate Misbehaviour, a “postdemographics” project for the social enterprise music-player maker Aivvy, and the September 2016 Hong Kong Legislative Council Election.

With generous funding from CUHK and the Faculty of Social Science, we are pleased to have invited 5 keynote speakers from major universities, leading public-sector research units, and global industry leaders: Michael Best, Wenhong Chen, Melissa Gregg, Isaac Mao, and Richard Rogers. They will share their insights on the intersection between digital methods and social development during the Sunday Summit. We are also delighted to have Natalia Sanchez, Gabriele Colombo, Michele Mauri, Agatha Brilli, Mariasilvia Poltronieri, Nick Zhang, and LIANG Hai as our group trainers. Equally excited we are to have Prof. XIANG Fan to showcase her innovative and thought-provoking digital artwork in the afternoon of August 24 (Wednesday).

With the exception of the Sunday Summit and the artistic Wednesday afternoon reception, the remaining moments of the week are data sprints, where participants undertake empirical projects that conclude with final presentations Saturday afternoon.

As for the preparations there is also a set of video tutorials to help with the use of the digital methods software tools (see pp.10-11). In order to gain the most out of the experience, it is recommended that participants familiarize themselves with the materials in advance.

See you in August at CUHK!

On behalf of the programming committee members, Michael Chan, King-wa Fu, Celine Song, Lokman Tsui, and Angela Wu, as well as the C-Centre director Joseph Man Chan,

Richard Rogers and Jack Qiu

Directions to CUHK

Transportation between CUHK and Hong Kong International Airport

Located at Chek Lap Kok, Hong Kong International Airport is conveniently accessible via taxi, public airport bus, and Mass Transit Railway (MTR).

Taxi

A direct taxi ride between the airport and CUHK would cost about HK$300 per car (maximum 5 persons each), depending on the traffic.

Public Airport Bus

Public Airport Bus no. A41 goes between the airport and New Town Plaza in Sha Tin. It departs every 20 minutes at the Airport Bus Terminus, and the journey takes approximately one hour. Subsequent interchange with MTR rail or taxi would be required.

The MTR ride between Sha Tin station and University station would take about 10 minutes. Taxi ride between Sha Tin and CUHK directly would cost around HK$60 to HK$80 per car (maximum 5 persons each), depending on the traffic.

The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Humanities Building

Please get off at the University station of the MTR East Rail, find Exit A then take the University Shuttle bus No.2 (free of charge). Get off at the last stop New Asia College and it's the first building on your left.

The University Guest House

The University Guest House provide free shuttle pick up service from MTR University Station Exit A to the Guesthouse. Reservation is required. Please contact the Guest House Manager Mr. Mike Fung via email at guest-house@cuhk.edu.hk.

Logistics

Bring a laptop, VGA adaptor, power and a UK plug. An iPad is not enough.

Internet connections on campus

Eduroam-network is available throughout the CUHK campus. Wireless devices will work with the home organization's username and password. Wi-Fi network is also available in the Humanities Building. To connect, select wireless network connection "COM-1" or "COM-2" and the password is "ct7625j8".

Preferred channel of communication

Have a Skype account for workshop group exchange. If you do not wish to use Skype, ask the organizer for alternatives.

Meals and Insurance

We offer lunch during the training programme period (excluding the 21 Aug public event) and a farewell dinner to all participants. Non-local participants are advised to arrange their own accident, health and hospitalization insurance for their stay in Hong Kong.
